Animal Production in Poland

Poland is located in the central part of Europe. The total area of our country is 312 685 km² with the population of 38.2 million people, of which more than 9 million people live in the rural area. Agricultural land covers nearly 50% of the total area. Animal production involves predominantly dairy, pig and poultry products. We have also a strong tradition of horse breeding. The conservation of animal resources is one of the most important issues.

Polish Society of Animal Production (Polskie Towarzystwo Zootechniczne)

Polish Society of Animal Production is a scientific society which was established in 1922. Its main activity is the cooperation in animal science development and dissemination of knowledge. Its mission is also to merge the scientists and industry people involved in animal production. PSAP edits two journals and organises annual scientific meetings. The society represents the industry to the Administrative Authorities and actively consults in the area of practice.

Warsaw (Warszawa)

Warsaw is a capital of Poland. It is located in the centre of Poland on the Vistula river bank. Its population is estimated to 1.7 million residents. The city grows and develops constantly. New towers in the city have changed the panorama of town during the recent years. But you can still find many places with the classical architecture, beautiful gardens and old streets. Complicated and difficult history of Warsaw is easy to perceive while walking its downtown streets and visiting museums.
